

Press conference in Paris

Teaser: Rajeev Suri joined by Michel Combes, CEO of Alcatel-Lucent, in Paris to present planned combination to media and investors.

Following the announcement on April 15 regarding the plan to combine Nokia and Alcatel-Lucent, our CEO Rajeev Suri and our Chairman Risto Siilasmaa were joined on stage at a press conference by the CEO and the Chairman of Alcatel-Lucent, Michel Combes and Philippe Camus, to explain the rationale behind the proposed combination to investors, analysts and the media, and answer their questions.

Journalists from French, Finnish and international media organizations gathered in the Pavillon Gabriel next to the famous Champs-Élysée to participate in a press conference that was held in both English and French with simultaneous translation for participants.

The presentation has been very well received by the media and the dual-language set-up underlined the developing friendship between the two companies. This is based around deep mutual respect and a shared vision of creating an innovation leader in next generation technology and services for an IP connected world.

Rajeev Suri commented to the media: “Today is a significant day for both of our companies. I have known Michel for a number of years now, and have always respected him as a competitor. I am delighted to now welcome him here with me as a partner and I stand here today absolutely confident that this is the right deal, with the right logic, at the right time.”

Michel Combes added: “This transaction comes at the right time to strengthen the European technology industry. The new company will also provide our employees exciting opportunities to be part of a global leader.”

The audio files from the press conference are available at www.newconnectivity.com, a dedicated transaction microsite to keep everyone — from investors, to media, to customers as well as employees — informed. This page will be updated as we move forward in the process and have new information to share.
